

North Dakota Studies Workshop

NEW Grade 8 North Dakota Studies

North Dakota: People Living on the Land

WANT TO LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS NEW GRADE 8 NORTH DAKOTA STUDIES CURRICULUM?

Teacher Training Available

Staff from the State Historical Society of North Dakota (SHSND) will come to your school and provide a 4-hour workshop on the NEW Grade 8 North Dakota Studies curriculum. A workshop has already been scheduled for the Chateau de Morés State Historic Site in Medora on June 5.

Learn about this new Grade 8 curriculum focusing on primary sources. Participants will be introduced to North Dakota: People Living on the Land, a new web-based curriculum, and the workshop will inspire participants to be ambassadors of this and other North Dakota Studies resources.

You or your school will:

- Invite a minimum of 5 social studies teachers for this training workshop. Teachers can be from your school and/or surrounding communities. (If you are unable to arrange for 5 or more teachers - please contact us about other options.)
- Provide a room in your school with the necessary technical capabilities for the training.
- Suggest a date and time for the training. Dates and times will be coordinated to meet SHSND staff and local schedules.

RESERVE A DATE EARLY

Depending on demand, the number of workshop sessions may be limited based on staff schedules.

There is no cost for this training.

North Dakota Studies Workshop

NEW Grade 8 North Dakota Studies

North Dakota: People Living on the Land

Goals and Objectives

The North Dakota Studies workshop will

- Introduce North Dakota: People Living on the Land, a new, web-based curriculum that will inspire participants to be ambassadors of this and other North Dakota Studies resources.
- Provide support and examples so participants can become familiar with this web-based curriculum.
- Investigate ways participants can adapt the curriculum to a learning environment.

Workshop presenters will

- Model a variety of applications for using primary source documents in North Dakota Studies.
- Extend the learning experience by using State Historical Society of North Dakota resources including the web-based curriculum, galleries, historic sites, National History Day, SEND trunks, and State Museum curators.
- Demonstrate multiple applications for using this web-based curriculum to meet student needs and interests.
- Inspire teachers to return to classrooms with engaging curriculum ideas that promote critical and historical thinking skills.
- Provide hands-on technology experiences related to the web-based curriculum.

As a result of this workshop experience, participants will be able to

- Discuss and evaluate ways this curriculum connects to and enhances the teaching of North Dakota Studies.
- Use this web-based curriculum.
