Debate/Discussion

In your readings, Sitting Bull, a powerful leader of the Standing Rock Lakota Indians, was said to be very important in the history of both North Dakota and the United States. Write down specific qualities of his leadership found in your readings or other sources and discuss with a partner, in small groups, or as a class if those are qualities still valued in our “leaders” today.

Creative Interpretation

Sitting Bull was a very powerful and influential figure in North Dakota history. Maintaining his peoples' culture was his primary goal.

A RAFT graphic organizer is a strategy that integrates reading and writing in a non-traditional way. A RAFT contains four elements: Role, Format, Audience, and Topic.

For the Role, imagine you are Sitting Bull who is trying to keep his culture intact and living on the land of ancestors, rather than on a reservation.

The Format will be a speech written to the U.S. Congress defending his right and the rights of his people to remain on the land of their ancestors.

The Audience will be both the House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, and the Topic is the rationale for keeping the land for hunting and survival and not to place the people on a reservation.

Role	Audience	Format	Topic
Sitting Bull	U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate	Speech to congress	Defending the rights of his people to stay on their land for their survival and to not be placed on reservations.
